WAS GIVEN UP TO DIE.

R. Spiegel, 1204 N. Virginia St., Evansville, Ind., writes: "For over five years I was troubled with kidney and bladder affections which caused me much pain and worry. I lost flesh and was all run down, and a year ago had to abandon work entirely. I had three of the best physicians who did me no good and I was practically given up to die. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended and the first bottle gave me great relief, and after taking the second bottle I was entirely cured."

HAD TO BREAK INTO HIS OWN HOUSE

Young Married Man Who Pranced
About House in His Night
Gown Trying to Get in.

They are telling a good story on a young married man of Pensacola, whose wife, like a great many other men's wives, is just now sojourning somewhere up the country where the "frost is on the pumpkin" and the corn is in the shock.

This gentleman had retired for the night, but as the weather was pretty warm and the inside of the house seemed mighty large and most all might still be thought it would be more pleasant and comfortable to sleep in the hammock out on the porch, especially as it was already equipped with a mosquito bar and the moon was shining very bright.

He had just had the windows screened with wire screen and as he went out onto the porch he closed the door behind him to keep the mosquitoes out, when "click" went the Yale lock on the inside, and the gentleman, who was attired in nothing more than a white night gown, found himself locked out of his own house, his key on the inside, no one in there to open the door for him, and his scanty attire hardly fitting him to call on the neighbors for help.

The windows were all securely fastened and the only way he could get into the house was to break in. But here a difficulty presented itself. He could not wait until morning, because he did not care to have the public see him prancing about the place in his night gown, and he was afraid to begin operations in the moonlight because some of the neighbors or a policeman might shoot him for a thief trying to break into the house.

After mature deliberation, however, he decided to take the risk and break in that night and after working for nearly an hour he succeeded in getting a back window unfastened so that he could crawl into it. The balance of the night he spent on the inside of the house.

CONGENIAL WORK.

It is One of the Greatest Factors for Good Health. Congenial work with mind and hands should be encouraged in all persons for its prophylactic as well as its curative influences. Rest will prove serviceable doubtless in numbers of cases, but its application should be restricted and carefully studied. There are many conditions where absolute rest will not only prove useless, but really harmful. To send a man from an active business life to one of complete inactivity will often prove disastrous, as much so as to prescribe all food for the obese.

The nervous will complain that they do not feel like work. If left to themselves and told to do absolutely nothing, not even to read, they are sure to dwell upon their infirmities and grow thereby morose and hypochondriacal, thus increasing their invalidism. The desire for work should be encouraged in all conditions and in all classes. If one's interest is aroused even to a slight degree a continuance in the work will develop a desire for occupation. One will never feel like work if one has nothing to do. Work will often accomplish what medicine, however properly applied, will not, for it is not alone that we must earn our bread by the sweat of the brow, but every man and woman should work for the pleasure of it as well as for the health giving, brain expanding results and the benefit of example.—Medical World.

Sarcasm.

At the sidewalk of one of the ferry houses in New York recently stood a police vehicle, backed against the curb awaiting its load. Walking leisurely in the center of the pushing, racing mob from a landing ferryboat was a tramp, all rags, but placid of manner. At his side walked a bluecoat, who led him to the waiting patrol wagon. As the tramp was about to enter he bethought himself, and, standing on the wagon steps, he leaned far out to one side and to the driver he called in the drawing voice of a bored boulevardier, "Home, James!"

Scriptural Revenge.

A letter in the Christian Register tells of a minister's son who had been so disobedient at table that he was banished to a small table by himself, to eat there until he should repent and reform. He could not even join in the family grace, but was told to say grace at his own little table. So from his store of Scripture selections he chose this: "O Lord, I thank thee that thou hast prepared a table for me in the presence of mine enemies."

A Taste of Fame.

When Thackeray was a candidate for parliament from the city of Oxford some one remarked to him that he must be well known to most of those whose votes he sought. "Now," said Thackeray, laying down his knife and fork and holding up a finger, "there was only one man among all that I went to see who had heard my name before, and he was a circulating librarian. Such is mortal fame!" That was in 1867 and "Vanity Fair" had been published ten years.

Do You Know that Mother's Friend is applied externally only?

Do You Know that Mother's Friend is a celebrated prescription, and that it has been in use over forty years, and that each bottle of the genuine bears the name of The Bradford Regulator Co.?

THE QUARANTINE AT APALACHICOLA

HOW THE REFUSAL OF THE STEAMER TARPON TO LAND
THERE HEREAFTER IS REGARDED.

A special from Apalachicola to the Atlanta News says: The day yellow fever was announced at Pensacola the steamer Tarpon was approaching the wharf here direct from the infected city. A committee of citizens were hastily gotten together and went out to meet the Tarpon and represent to her the opposition of the citizens to its discharging its passengers here.

On the next trip of the Tarpon here, Carrabelle and this city, seeing the gravity of the situation had established a rigid quarantine against the Tarpon and all other boats coming from Pensacola. For the past twelve days the Tarpon has been lying off East Pass, while her officers and Dr. Porter, state health officer, were, it is reported, urging the governor to use the necessary means to force the people of Carrabelle and Apalachicola to allow the Tarpon to land and deliver her passengers and freight. However, the Tarpon did not come to this port till Sunday. It is reported in today's Pensacola papers that hereafter the Tarpon will not make Carrabelle and this port. This action by its owners is supposed to be based on the quarantine established against her.

Owing to the location of this city, it having no agricultural region near it, and no railway to bring supplies an epidemic of fever at this time would be a serious blow to it.

Every one admits Dr. Porter has made a great fight at Pensacola and in doing so he seems to have forgotten the adjacent cities. He has shown ill temper at the city officials quarantining against Pensacola and other infected points. It is regretted that the owners of the Tarpon propose to discontinue this as one of its places of landing. This action seems to be in the nature of a boycott, but the citizens are still determined that everything possible shall be done to keep yellow fever out of this city as it is now on the eve of a growth and prosperity such as it has never known before.

Titles In Germany.

The question of title is one of the most delicate in Germany, a fact of which the stranger is constantly reminded in intercourse with the people, particularly with the women. Frau Professor, Frau Director, Frau Doctor, are most particular about their husband's titles being attached to their own names. But when it comes to military circles it is different, and both men and women protest vigorously against this sharing of titles. Lieutenant von B. objects to having his wife addressed as Frau Lieutenant, which title belongs as well to the wife of Lieutenant Schmidt or Haaf of a less aristocratic regiment.

USEFUL DISCOVERIES.

Are Not Always Startling, Neither Do They Create the Most Talk.

It is not always the greatest, most startling discoveries of science that are most useful to the human race. Comparatively few people were directly interested in Herschel's finding of the new planet Uranus, but many thousands have been benefited by Prof. Una's experiments, which proved beyond a question that Dandruff and Baldness are the results of the inroads of a parasitic germ which invades the roots of the hair.

The discovery of the true cause of baldness made Newbro's Herpicide possible. Herpicide effectually kills this germ. Destroy the cause you remove the effect.

PENSACOLA'S ENERGETIC MAYOR

City Executive Likened to Mayor
McClellan, of New York by Editor of Municipal News.

Some time since Mayor Bliss, received a communication from Editor Wm. S. Crandall, of the New York Municipal News, a recognized authority upon Municipal affairs, relative to the city of Pensacola, to which he replied at considerable length. A recent issue of the Municipal News contains the following comment and extract from the letter of Pensacola's Mayor:

Pensacola's Live Mayor.

Mayor Charles H. Bliss, of Pensacola, Florida, like Mayor McClellan of New York, was formerly a newspaper man of wide experience, who appreciates fully the advantage to be gained by a plentiful use of "printer's ink." Mayor Bliss is very enterprising and up to date in his methods. Speaking on August 11 of the public affairs of Pensacola, the Mayor said:

"Probably it will be of interest to know that we have recently passed an ordinance for the issuing of $750,000 improvement bonds. Under the law, an issuance of bonds has to be ratified by a vote of the people. We held an election on August 22d for the purpose of the approval or disapproval of this issue of bonds, and there was little opposition.

"These bonds are for the purpose of building a water-works, $250,000; and $250,000 for additional sewerage; $150,000 for street paving; $75,000 for a city hall, and $25,000 for a police station and jail.

"We have within the past week passed an ordinance granting to the Pensacola, Alabama & Western Railroad Company a franchise giving them rights of way through certain streets in our city and transferring to them certain valuable water-front property on the bay. We have also this week passed an ordinance granting similar privileges to the Pensacola & North-eastern R. R. Co. The water-front property granted is considered to aggregate a value of approximately $1,000,000.

"The projectors of the roads propose building a line of road from Pensacola to Andalusia, Ala., and a line of road from Pensacola to Memphis, Tenn., and the estimates show the approximate outlay to be about $25,000,000.

"Pensacola has one of the best health records of any city in the United States. Her rigid quarantine during the last quarter of a century nearly, has kept the city free from yellow fever and other diseases.

"Under the present city administration the city is improving her sanitary condition, and is cleaner today than it has ever been, possibly, in her history heretofore, and the people have very little fear of yellow fever. When our new drainage and sewerage system is established, we will, without doubt, be the most healthful city in the United States, and possibly in the world."

FEEL IMPENDING DOOM.

The feeling of impending doom in the minds of many victims of Bright's disease and diabetes has been changed to thankfulness by the benefit derived from taking Foley's Kidney Cure. It will cure incipient Bright's diabetes and even in the worst cases gives comfort and relief. Slight disorders are cured in a few days. "I had diabetes in its worst form," writes Marion Lee of Dunreath, Ind. "I tried eight physicians with relief. Only three bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made me a well man." W. A. OBITUARY.

Gaitano Giardini.

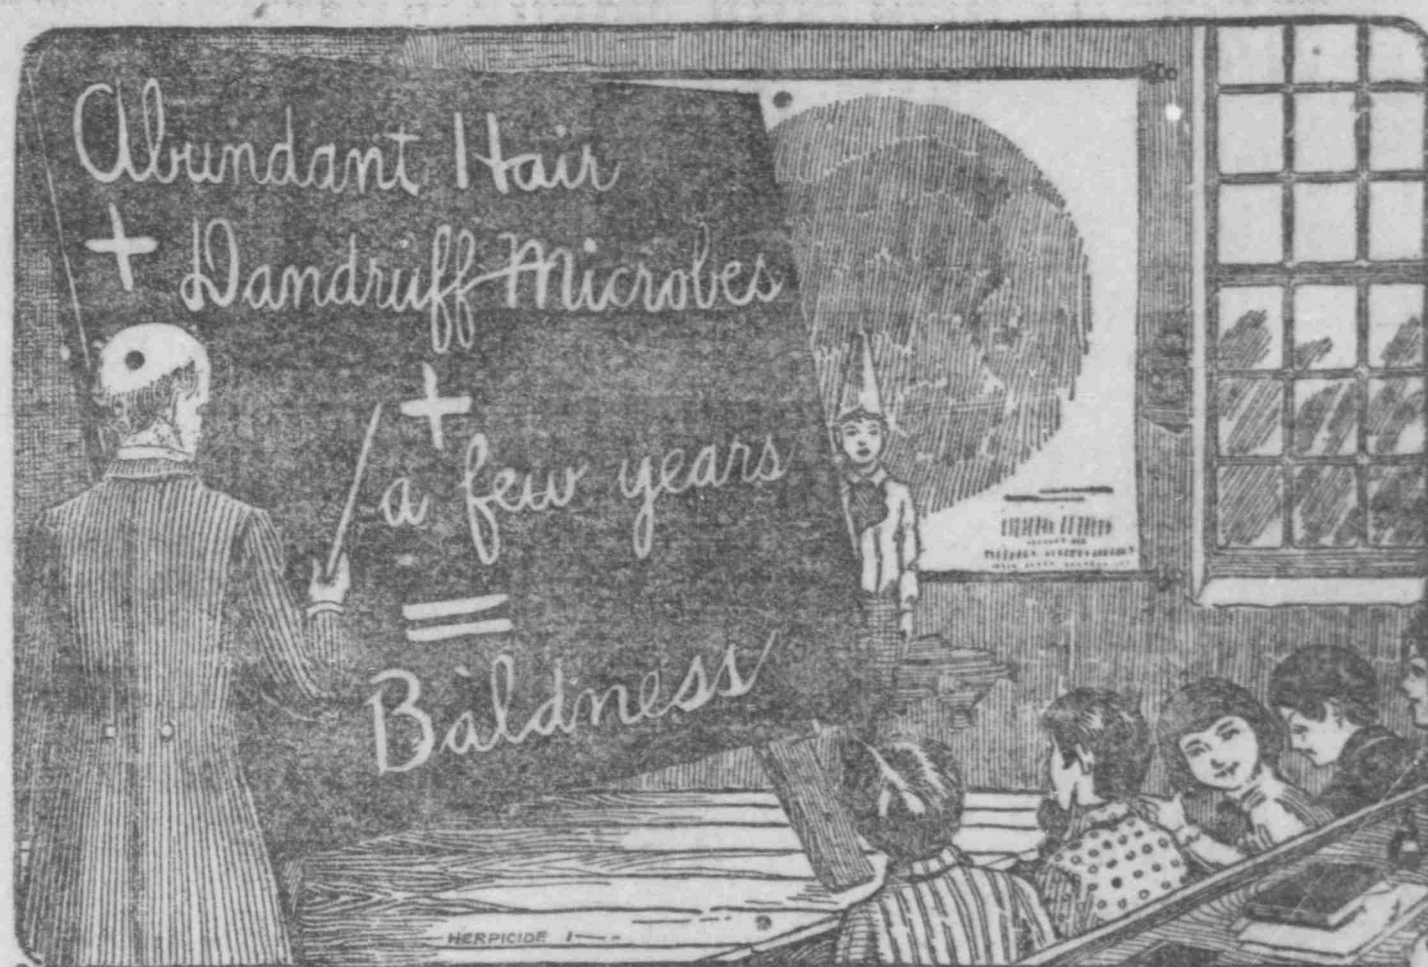

Gaitano Giardini, one of the oldest Italian citizens of Pensacola, passed away last Tuesday September 19, 1905, at his late residence, 35 South Spring Street.

Mr. Giardini who had reached the age of fifty-five years, had been ill for some time with typhoid fever, and hence his death was not unexpected. His remains were laid away Wednesday evening at four o'clock in St. Michael's Cemetery, in a vault and the floral tributes were many and beautiful.

Mr. Giardini was born in Italy in 1851. On reaching manhood he decided to cast his lot in the new world, and with that purpose in view, boarded a vessel bound for New Orleans. After spending some time in New Orleans he went to Birmingham, and from there he came to Pensacola and worked for a few months loading timber in the bay.

Then he started a small fruit stand on South Palafox Street, and had fair success. He next started in business as a Commission Merchant and wholesale fruit dealer, and built up a business that would have been a credit to any man with a better English education. He owned two or more blocks of real estate on West Zarragosa and Baylen Streets, and was worth probably $100,000.00, or more at the time of his death.

In April 1888, Mr. Giardini was married to Angelena Rizzoto, of New Or-

Newbro's Herpicide.

SCHOOL CHILDREN.

Every school child should know that baldness is a contagious disease, caused by a microbe. Prof. Uzna, of Hamburg, Germany, discovered that dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair, and final baldness are produced by a germ or microbe that passes from one head to another, where it burrows into the scalp and by multiplying and extending deeper and deeper into the hair follicles, saps the life of the hair root and produces baldness.

IT TAKES YEARS

to produce complete baldness, for the action of the dandruff microbe is not constant in every case. It is governed by predisposition, by the state of health, by environment, but particularly by the endeavor made to combat the growth and development of the dandruff microbes, which can only be destroyed with Newbro's Herpicide.

This new antiseptic scalp germicide is past the experimental stage. It was made to destroy the germ that causes dandruff and falling hair, and by coaxing energy back into the impoverished bulbs, it enables the hair to grow naturally and luxuriantly.

Thousands of letters from physicians, clergymen and laymen tell the same story of its wonderful success.

AN IDEAL HAIR DRESSING.

It is fortunate for those who understand the new rules for scalp cleanliness that the antiseptic qualities of Newbro's Herpicide make it the most delightful and refreshing hair dressing imaginable. Chronic baldness is incurable; save your hair, while you have hair to save.

WILL ALWAYS USE IT.

I received your sample bottle of Herpicide and used it according to directions, and I am delighted with its cleansing and soothing effect. I shall always use and recommend it.

WITHOUT PARALLEL.

I am now and have been using Herpicide for some time. It gives better satisfaction for dandruff and falling hair than anything I have ever used and I have used others for ten years.
